For the past four months, Airmen living in dorms at Tyndall have been receiving Basic Allowance for Subsistence.

The dining facility that has been providing food for Airmen has been closed due to renovations since early February.

After a few months of renovations, Berg-Liles Dining Hall finally reopened Friday.

The kitchen area in the dining hall was due to undergo construction.

"It was necessary for the dining facility to be closed," said Tech Sgt. Brian Denny, 325th Services Squadron dining hall manager. "The old ceiling was beginning to chip away onto the ground, which could have got in the food."

In addition to a new ceiling, a new fire suppression system, new hoods, a new air conditioning system and new lights were all installed in the kitchen area of the dining facility.

With the reopening of the dining hall, there come a couple of changes.

Monday through Friday, Berg Liles is open from 5:30 to 7:30 a.m. for breakfast, 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. for lunch, and 4:30 to 6:30 p.m for dinner.

On weekends and holidays, Berg Liles is open from 6:30 to 7:30 a.m. for breakfast, 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. for lunch, and 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. for dinner.

will no long be available.

BAS was given to Airmen living in the dorms while the dining hall was closed. BAS equaled approximately $267 dollars a month for Airmen, which roughly averaged out to $9 dollars a day or $3 dollars per meal.

The dining hall provides a variety of meals to Airmen at low prices.

Meals include pizza, hamburgers, corn dogs, vegetables, a salad bar and more.

With the limited choice of places to eat on base, the re-opening of Berg Liles Dining Hall allows Airmen to once again enjoy breakfast, lunch and dinner without having to drive off base.
